Aldo van Eyck: the Shape of Relativity is the first monograph on an architect whose poetic vision has exerted a far-reaching influence on architectural thinking since the Second World War.
It is the story of an eventful career and an intensive study of an oeuvre.

The Aldo van Eyck pavilion in the sculpture garden is as faithful as possible to reproduce the temporary pavilion that this Dutch architect designed in 1965-1966 for the 5th International sculpture exhibition '66 in Arnhem. As in all the designs of Van Eyck, who advocates a 'humane architecture,' circles and curves play an essential role in the building.
