A consistent system of equations is one that has at least one solution. If you have the system:
 $\begin{cases} x+y=10 \\ 2x+2y=20 \end{cases}$ $\{ x + y = 10 \\ 2x + 2y = 20$ That's consistent, because the solutions are the line $x+y=10$ $x + y = 10$.

Determining if a System of Equations is Consistent ...

Two equations define two planes: and in geometry, two planes intersect in a line. Thus these two equations define a line, and you know this just because there are two of them. A third equation would define another plane, and the intersection of that plane and the line you have already got would give you a point.

~~Solution~~, a system with fewer equations than unknowns has infinitely many solutions, but it may have no solution. Such a system is known as an underdetermined system. In general, a system with the same number of equations and unknowns has a single unique solution. In general, a system with more equations than unknowns has no solution.
