~~Teaching Young Learners: Online Course - FutureLearn~~

Teaching a foreign language requires educators to recognize the needs of their students. The requirements of adult learners differ greatly from those of young English language learners (YELLS). By identifying their needs, teachers can then adapt various factors in the classroom in order to have the greatest impact on YELL learning.

~~Language Teaching for Young Learners~~

Teaching young students how to speak is the most important area of learning. The best practice embeds speaking and listening across all aspects and areas of their education. Students use speaking and listening to solve problems, speculate, share ideas, make decisions and reflect on what is important. Social relations in the classroom depend on talk, and students' confidence and attitudes to learning are affected by friendships and positive interaction.

By Emily Kaplan. April 12, 2019. Over 10 percent of students in the United States (more than 4.8 million kids) are English language learners (ELLs), and the number is on the rise. Though these students do not learn differently than their native-English-speaking peers, they do have particular educational needs. To learn about these needs (and best practices for addressing them) I interviewed a range of educators and observers, including Larry Ferlazzo, an educator and author of The ESL ...
